

Weekly Market Update

Primary market environment: Despite slight signs of easing - gas and oil prices have decreased recently - the market environment is challenging. High inflation remains an issue, thus further interest rate steps are likely. According to ECB Governing Council member Scicluna, the central bank could tighten further.

Primary market barometer

The funding needs of the federal states, for example, are lower than usual this year. SSAs with refinancing needs have therefore recently found a receptive environment.

This week we saw a veritable fireworks display of new issuance activity in the covered bond segment. One transaction followed the other. However, the issuing environment is getting rougher, thus issuers are inclined to jump at the chance.

The primary market for senior unsecured bank bonds continues to be receptive, but conditions in the highly volatile environment are becoming more difficult. Issuers are taking advantage of open market windows, but investors are becoming increasingly selective.

After a brief easing in the previous week, our spread indicator illustrates the renewed increase in risk aversion.

SSA

The SSA segment was somewhat overshadowed this week by the flood of covered bond issues. Nevertheless, all issuers managed a successful market appearance. First and foremost the EU, whose syndicated dual-tranche bond issue, limited from the outset to a volume of 12 bn EUR, met with almost ten times greater investor demand. After the final spread was fixed, the respective new issue premium was around 2 bp. The impressive success of this issue should provide tailwind for the EU's further funding projects. After all, the EU has announced a total volume of 50 bn EUR for the second half of the year. The EIB issue also met with great investor interest. The book-to-cover ratio of 8.3x impressively underlines this. Today, the state of Schleswig-Holstein came to the market with a 10-year benchmark at MS-13 - the initial spread was priced at MS-12.

Outlook: The covered bond community is mostly in Vienna next week (see below), this "absence" could benefit SSAs. Issuers and investors alike have the opportunity to focus on this.

Covered Bonds

The high number of new issues continued unabated this week. Several issues came to the market every day, thus initial expectations for the annual issue volume have already been clearly exceeded. This week, the issue volume totalled 8.8 bn EUR. The focus was on issuers from core Europe (Germany, Austria, Netherlands), supplemented by other issuers from Iceland, Norway, Finland and the UK.

The extremely high volume of covered issues is now leading to a normalisation of oversubscription rates, while at the same time new issue premiums are climbing to 2 to 4 bp. Helaba was the non plus ultra this week with an order book of 3.7 bn EUR for its four-year mortgage Pfandbrief and an issue volume of 1.5 bn EUR. With UniCredit Bank Austria and Erste Bank, issuers from Austria were also active. Looking at the development of spreads, it is noticeable that they are increasingly widening compared to German bonds (see chart). On the one hand, this is probably due to the regional proximity to Eastern Europe - keyword Ukraine war - and the existing exposures in these countries. On the other hand, the Austrian issuance volume this year is comparatively high at around 30 bn EUR (the average of the last five years was 11.6 bn EUR), so that the opportunities for investors to take further newly placed bonds on their books have probably been exhausted.

After a build-up in August, the ECB recently reduced its covered bond portfolio (CBPP3) further significantly, by 442 m EUR in the last reporting week.

Outlook: The primary market will probably take a break in the coming week. On 22 September the Euro-money/ECBC Covered Bond Congress will take place in Vienna. A large part of the market participants will be on site, thus existing issuance projects have been postponed. However, a timely realisation of the plans seems likely, as the general conditions - the reasons for which are well known - are tending to cloud over.

"Since the beginning of the week, covereds in the secondary market have been showing slight signs of fatigue. The never-ending stream of new issues plays a role here, which have to be digested in view of the still very volatile and burdened overall market sentiment. Behind this is certainly the fact that the dreaded "QT" word has wafted into the market! All sorts of "sources" are reporting that in addition to the rate hike path, the ECB may take further highly effective measures to combat rampant inflation and an impending slippage in medium-term inflation expectations. "

Senior Unsecured

The market environment remains extremely volatile: Following the ECB monetary authorities' decision on the 0.75% interest rate step last Thursday, the iTraxx EUR Financials Senior Spread trended only briefly higher, but then quickly narrowed again. The development in the Ukraine over the weekend and the decline in gas futures provided further relief in the markets at the beginning of the week. Only the U.S. inflation figures clouded the picture again, so that the spread widened by 20 bps from Tuesday to Wednesday.

The primary market for senior unsecured bank bonds mirrored this development: Eight issues came to market on Monday and Tuesday alone. It is striking that the individual transactions were comparatively small in volume, even though the total issue volume for the two days amounted to 5.75 bn EUR and the order books were well filled with a total of two subscriptions.

With seven transactions, the focus was also clearly on the better ranked senior preferred paper, and the new issue premiums offered were also comparatively high, with relatively little constriction afterwards. DNB Bank ASA, a very well-established issuer, was able to complete the largest transaction (1.25 bn EUR) at the lowest new issue premium (7 bps).

Outlook: The ambiguous picture is solidifying: the market continues to show receptiveness, but conditions in the highly volatile environment are becoming increasingly difficult. Issuers continue to take advantage of market windows that present themselves to fill their issuance plans, which have been expanded by high maturities and credit growth, as quickly as possible. Due to the expectation of further rising interest rates, they are also seeking pre-funding. Investors, on the other hand, are becoming increasingly selective and are focusing on high quality and shorter to medium maturities. This overall picture should not change in the coming week.

“The flows are currently driven by the new issues. Fast-money accounts are living up to their name and are sometimes still selling on the same day with small profit-taking or even with a loss. In contrast, insurance companies and asset managers are trying to increase their allocations somewhat, which in turn has made two-way flows in medium volumes possible. It can be said that the summer slump has come to an end and hardly anyone is still following the events from the sidelines.”

Short news

9/13 ECB study on sustainability ratings: The ECB has published a study examining how credit rating agencies accepted by the Eurosystem incorporate climate change risk in their credit ratings. It also analyses how rating agencies disclose their assessments of climate change risks to rating users.

9/13: Major banks continue share buybacks: Europe's banks continue to distribute capital to their shareholders despite recession worries. Switzerland's UBS increased its full-year dividend by 10 % and announced that its share buyback program would exceed its 5 bn USD target. Italy's UniCredit recently announced that the European Central Bank had approved the second tranche of its share buyback program, allowing it to repurchase 1 bn USD worth of shares. (Reuters)

9/12 ESAs warn of rising risks: The three European Supervisory Authorities (EBA, EIOPA and ESMA - ESAs) issued their Autumn 2022 joint risk report. The report highlights that the deteriorating economic outlook, high inflation and rising energy prices have increased vulnerabilities across the financial sectors. The ESAs advise national supervisors, financial institutions and market participants to prepare for challenges ahead.

9/9 ECB intensifies review of banks' exposure to gas crisis: The ECB is intensifying discussions with banks over their readiness for a potential surge in company defaults and a drying-up of energy-market liquidity, amid the worsening stand-off over Russian gas supplies. (Bloomberg)

9/8 ECB monetary policy: The ECB raises its three key interest rates by 75 bp each, which also brings its key deposit rate to 0.75 % as of Sept. 14. After years of negative interest rates, banks will thus again receive positive remuneration for their excess liquidity held at the ECB. As a result, the two-tier system for paying interest on excess reserves would also no longer be necessary and would thus be suspended. Maturing paper from the Pandemic Emergency Purchase Program (PEPP) would be flexibly reinvested at least until the end of 2024. Maturities from the Asset Purchase Program (APP) are to be carried out "as long as necessary" to ensure ample liquidity.

Leisure tip for the weekend: Celtic World at Glauberg

The Celt World at Glauberg is an archaeological museum and research center in the municipality of Glauberg in Hesse. The focus is on the Celtic period, and the facility includes, among other things, an archaeological park. The park is directly attached to the museum in the form of a 370,000-square-meter outdoor area. On the present park area there is the former Celtic hilltop settlement as well as a medieval town complex. The permanent exhibition focuses on the "Celtic Prince of Glauberg" and also presents original finds from previous excavations in a historical and scientific context. The visitor center is rounded off by a café with a wide window front offering a view over the exhibition site.
